Performance

The financial markets had a great start to the new year despite the uncertainties surrounding the corona virus. Both the DD Equity Fund and the DD Income Fund managed to close the month positively with a return of 0.7% and 1.9% respectively. The DD Property Fund started the year with a loss of 1.6% due to declining share prices of some retail investors.

The returns for the different risk profiles in January were between 1.6% for the most defensive profile and 0.3% for the most offensive risk profile. The neutral risk profile achieved a return of 0.9% in January.

Tactical asset allocation

Each investment profile has a strategic allocation with bandwidths to equities, bonds and alternatives. The table below gives an overview of the five different standard investment profiles (without bandwidths). The classifications of risk profiles are motivated by the AFM (the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets) and mainly based on historical risks and returns.

Equities	10%	25%	40%	60%	80%
Bonds	85%	65%	45%	25%	10%

We respond to the current market conditions by putting weights (within the bandwidths) to the various asset classes: equities, bonds and alternatives. We call this the tactical asset allocation. We were overweight equities at the start of 2019, but we reduced this overweight position in two small steps. At the moment we do not have an overweight position in equities anymore and are the strategic and tactical asset allocation identical. Equities have the best long-term outlook, but given the recent sharp rise in share prices and the increased risks of, for example, an economic downturn or an escalation of the corona virus, we are slightly more cautious. For bonds, the outlook is less than average due to low interest rates, but the risk is also lower.
